

Adam Silverstein

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT, QUALITY, ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH & SAFETY

Adam Silverstein is Executive Vice President, Quality, Environment, Health & Safety at Westinghouse Electric Company. In this role, he leads Westinghouse's total commitment to safety, including the company's nuclear safety, industrial safety and quality assurance programs.

Prior to joining Westinghouse in April 2024, Mr. Silverstein was Vice President – Quality at CommScope, an international, wireless telecommunication infrastructure systems supplier. In this role, Silverstein led the quality function for the Outdoor Wireless Networks – Structures and Connectivity sector.

Mr. Silverstein began his career in the automotive industry, working in engineering, design, procurement and program management across Delphi Chassis Systems (USA), GKN Driveline North America Inc., Tower Automotive Inc., and NSK Steering Systems America, Inc.

Mr. Silverstein earned an undergraduate degree in Mechanical Engineering from The University of Rochester and a master's degree in Engineering Science and Mathematics from The Pennsylvania State University. Additionally, he has also earned a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from the University of Michigan Ross School of Business.