

Dan Sumner

Chief Financial Officer and Executive Vice President, Finance & Strategy

Dan Sumner is Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Executive Vice President, Finance & Strategy at Westinghouse Electric Company. In this role, he is responsible for Westinghouse's global finance, strategy, and M&A operations and is focused on further strengthening the company's financial health through strategic transformation.

Mr. Sumner has served as Westinghouse's CFO since 2017 and has been instrumental in the strategic repositioning of the company. Prior to his current role, Mr. Sumner served as Westinghouse's Vice President of Finance, Chief Compliance Officer, Head of Enterprise Risk Management, and Director of Corporate Audit. Mr. Sumner has also played key roles in several strategic initiatives and transformation projects since joining the company in 2010.

Prior to his tenure at Westinghouse, Mr. Sumner worked for Alcoa as a member of the corporate audit staff, focused on assessing and consulting on operational, business, and financial performance across the company's global operations. Preceding Alcoa, he held roles in the banking industry and at a start-up venture.

Mr. Sumner holds a bachelor's degree in business management from Grove City College. He also graduated from the University of Pittsburgh's Katz School of Business with a Master of Business Administration (MBA) and Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program. Additionally, Mr. Sumner has earned executive certificates from Stanford University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Sloan School of Management in the areas of leadership, strategic decision making, and risk management.